DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's Terminal Disclaimer which was filed on 4-26-06 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claims 111, 112, 117, 136, 141, 157 and 158 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kwok et al (6,373,088). As shown in FIG. 2E, the Kwok reference teaches a metal-polysilicon contact having a polysilicon layer (210) formed over a substrate, a barrier layer (220) formed over the polysilicon layer, a conductive layer (230) formed over the barrier layer in an opening of an insulating layer (250), where the conductive layer has at least one vertically extending surface, and with an oxygen absorbing layer (240) formed of silicon nitride and adjacent to said conductive layer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 114-116, 118-135, 137-140, 143-156 and 160-163 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kwok in view of Lou, of record. While Kwok teaches the basic combination of layers including an oxygen absorbing layer adjacent to the conductive layer, Lou, the explanation of which is hereby incorporated by reference from the previous office actions, also teaches a similar arrangement of layers with additional configurations including plural, vertical oxygen absorbing layers, platinum conductive layers, and used in a capacitor arrangement. Kwok also teaches that his device structure may be used in a DRAM memory cell, which would also include a capacitor arrangement, as claimed.

Kwok also teaches that different refractory metals may be used as the conductive layers, and while Kwok doesn't recite exactly the same claimed dimensions, his device structure is also formed in the nanometer range, and thus, the claimed dimensional ranges would be within the scope of the Kwok reference.

One skilled in the art would be motivated to combine these references in order to gain the benefit of more stable contacts to the memory devices.
